LESSONS FROM RIEL'S TRIAL.

The arguments by the able counsel in the Riel trial have more than a passing interest for every resident in the Northwest Territories. Mr. FitzPatrick, in his able speech, has shown that the British Government, he argues not so much the rights of Riel as the rights of every British subject in the Northwest Territories. The main question has been: Have we a right to a trial by jury or not; that is, can the Parliament of Canada take away from us the right to a trial by jury? In the case of Saskatchewan, can they pass the legislation they please as regards the paying of deference to our wishes or the British constitution under which we supposed we lived. Mr. Robinson argues that the Dominion Parliament is absolute over us and when any legislation is passed by it we must accept it as they are in full power to legislate us by the Imperial Parliament to legislate in what manner they please as regards us.

Has not Mr. Robinson forgotten the preamble of the British North America Act which says that we are to have a constitutional government like that of Great Britain? Take away the right of trial by jury and have we a constitution similar in spirit to that of Great Britain? Trial by jury has been defined to be the bulwark of British liberties and the other great mainstay of British liberty is the independence of the judges. A very cursory examination of our laws will show we have neither.

What is there of six men chosen by the judge who tries us? Is the judge who tries us independent when he holds office during the pleasure of the Minister of Justice? All other British judges who have the power of life and death in their hands, are independent and hold their good behaviour which gives them independence as regards the Crown and the people. If a Jeffries were on the bench and had the choosing of the jury from any part of Canada or the United States, he could have a life and death in his hands, and we have no guarantee but such a judge would not be appointed here. Take Judge Richardson for instance. He does not take any consideration of the arguments before him, merely decides off-hand, showing had long ago made up his mind on the matter, or, perhaps, as Mr. Monde says, "he did not understand the arguments and was mixed up by the statutes so that he dare not go into the matter, except to show his own incapacity." At best he was bound to do the bidding of the Minister of Justice under the pain of incriminating himself. Those who have got to Richardson know that his whole heart's desire is to please the powers at Ottawa, and that he pays more attention to their wishes than to his law books. Le Monde calls the trial before such a judge and jury a farce, and too many people share the same opinion. It is not now a matter of life and death, but it is a question whether any of us are entitled to a proper trial before proper tribunals.

"Lex Locis" in the Ottawa Free Press calls the court a semi-military tribunal. Le Monde says, "would fault it if we have not a proper court and trial by jury. Mr. FitzPatrick says that it is more than doubtful that the territories were admitted into the dominion by the stipulations of the B. N. A. Act of 1867, whether we are not directly under the British law, and are then perniciously say, if we were admitted under the B. N. A. Act there is nothing to say that we shall be admitted into confederation with different rights and other provisions. We are told that when Adams was deprived of the liberties a British subject holds dear."

If Mr. Robinson's arguments hold good we are mere creatures of the whims and caprice of the powers at Ottawa who know nothing of us, and we are exactly in the position of Chinese peons being led to the coast that they could try a man for coming, and decide without examining what we should eat, drink and wear, and if they wished render us slaves to the rest of the dominion. One great authority quoted by Mr. Green, said, "I will add, says—" This clause means no one whom would deprive us of our persons or property without a regular trial according to the course and usage of the common law, and in private suits at common law, would not be the law of the land in the sense of the constitution and trial by a jury of twelve men according to the law of the common law." Is the common law abrogated here? We should say no; and would also say that any law to take away a common law right must be absolute in its nature to leave no room for doubt; and more, that the law which is given to take away common law rights must have jurisdiction without question. But as regards us the Imperial statute clearly lays down that we have the common law it is right to say that the common law constitution cannot be taken away by the dominion parliament. We are satisfied by the arguments in this case that trial by jury will come out of it, and if Riel suffers the extreme penalty of the law, that his death will not be sloughed without fruit, as it will no doubt put us in the North-West territories as regards legal rights in the same position as those in the other provinces, and a party that has armed itself with a pair of shears has been summoned up by an able judge who would sift the whole matter, as the effect of such a judgment would cause at once a change in the laws, if their spirit did not agree with the spirit of the English constitution.

THE CENSUS.

The news of the taking of the census for the Northwest has been undertaken and the returns will in all probability be completed early next summer, giving satisfaction in many ways. One in the first place it makes it a reasonable expectation that the territories will have representatives at Ottawa in about two months time, and in the mean while will it be possible to estimate with some degree of accuracy the numerical strength and progress of the provisional districts.

The Assinibina paper estimate the population of that provisional district at 160,000. In Alberta, the papers have estimated the population of the territory at 100,000. As for Saskatchewan, we are not aware that any estimate of its population has been made, but any estimate which might have been considered appropriate would have to be very considerably varied after the events which have transpired there this summer.

There is an impression in town that the town council has offered a compensation to the Northwest Land Co. in the matter of the taking the unused portion of the town site.

This, however, is erroneous. The council put the interest of the Canadian company in the town site at $10,000, and have decided to pay in full for this, amounting to $300. This was telegraphed to Winnipeg, and that will meet the fate he has so well deserved.
